

'Full Track' Gun Vehicles To Come Here

City commissioners Monday night voted to lease another three and a half scres of land at the East Airport to the National Guard after Maj. Gen. John P. Jolly described plans for a major storage area here.

Jolly, who is state adjutant general and formerly of Los Cruces, attended the city commission meeting and made a personal request for the lease of additional land to what the Guard already leases of: North Solano. He said the Guard plans call for a summer field concentration

He said the Guard plans can for a summer field concentration site in Las Cruces and more band is needed immediately, as the first shipment of new equipment is due this month. This will include twen 40 millimeter "full track" gun vahicles. These guns are mounted on "tauza without turrets" and cost about $125,000 each.

Johy also said $10,000 in Improvements are scheduled for the aced, gios 14 new fulltime employes. The storage area buildupliere has been agreed in because of the proximity to Ft. Bliss, whose cast military restriction is used each autumer for training by the New Mexico National Guard.

In other commission business, about 50 to 50 persons appeared to speak in opposition to the city's public housing program, which has already received a federal toan, James Martin, a local attorney, presented a petition with 250 names. He said, liese names are being added to those of another 1,700 already automitted to the commission as opposing public housing here.
